IVER LAWSON IS HOME AGAIN

Returns With World's Cycling Championship.

TRIP WAS SUCCESSFUL ONE

LEAVES SHORTLY FOR AUSTRA-LIA TO SEEK NEW HONORS.

Iver Lawson, world's champion cyclist, fresh from his recent victories over the best riders in the world, arrived yesterday in Salt Lake, the city he claims as his home. The news of his arrival soon spread around the streets and for the rest of the day he was as asy shaking hands as a politician. Lawson looks the very picture of health; in fact, he is the same old Iver who has pleased thousands in the past at the local saucer track by his riding. Iver comes direct to Salt Lake from London, England, where he won the title of champion professional and amateur cyclist of the world.

"I made fully three times as much money as if I had remained in America this year," said Iver yesterday, "and captured the world's championship, which will be worth much to me in Australia this winter. I think I have been riding faster than I ever did in my life before, and see no reason why I should not do as well this winter and next season. I lost my first race in Paris after I arrived, because I was not in condition, but after that I had little trouble in beating every man I

In Salt Lake Three Weeks.

When asked what his future plans were, Lawson said:
"I will remain in Salt Lake for two three weeks and take a rest. Then I will go direct to Australia. I have a match race on with Major Taylor, to a match race on with Major Taylor, to be ridden Christmas day over there, and, according to my contract, I cannot ride in a match race before that date. I expect to return to Salt Lake again in the spring and do not know at the present time what my plans will be for next summer. I have offers to ride in Europe again, but do not know Seattle Seattle by a score of 1 to 6. Keefe let Scattle get only two hits while Hughes held Tacoma down to five. The only run scored during the game was on a two-bagger by Eagan and a single by Casey. The fielding was brilliant. Brown did not show up and Howletts umpired. His work was splendid. Score:
